The Goose That Laid the Golden Eggs

Once upon a time, there was a Farmer. He earns enough to maintain himself. One day he bought a Goose. The Goose used to lay an egg daily. It does not lay simple and ordinary eggs. That goose lays Golden Eggs. By those Golden Eggs, Farmer became Rich. However, everyone gets greedier by getting more. Therefore, this happened with the Farmer also. He thought, “How can I get Richer through this Goose?” After a while, he thought an idea to cut the Goose and get all of its Golden Eggs out at once. The next day the goose again laid a Golden Egg. However, the Farmer caught the Goose, to cut its body. He thought that there would be many Golden Eggs. However, there was nothing instead of Blood. He became very sad because now he will not get a single Golden Egg. His life was going well with an egg every day but he lost it too. Due to his greed, again he became very poor. This was the result of his greed. How much foolish he was.

About The Goose

“The Goose That Laid the Golden Eggs” is one of the best Story taken from Aesop’s Fables. This Story is number 87 in the Perry Index. This is the most interesting and attractive Story having meaningful Moral.

Moral

This is the most fascinating and smashing story having meaningful Moral.

There are four Morals of this Story:

• There is no end of Greed.
• A Greedy always desires more and never satisfies.
• Who desires more, loses all.
• People must satisfy what they get.

Every Time is Story Time

By story, we can grow our creativity of mind because every story has a moral, and if we learn more we can learn new and good things. That is why you tell these all Stories to your children and tell them their Morals because, by morals, children can learn new and unique things. You can learn morals by reading it loudly. So, why are you waiting for? Tell the story of the Thirsty Crow to your child and tell him the Moral of this Story.