

The Dogs and The Fox

Once upon a time, a lion's skin fell in the forest by mistake by a hunter. Some dogs found that lion's skin and started to tear and eat it through their teeth. A fox was wandering around who saw the dogs eating the lion's skin and laughed reproachfully.

He said, "If that lion was alive, it would have been a very varying story. The lion had made you feel how sharp his claws are than your teeth!"

Moral

This interesting story has a very meaningful moral that is:

It is easy and disgusting as well to kick a stronger who is already down.

About

The Dogs and The Fox is one of The Famous Aesop's Fable. "The Dogs and The Fox" is alternatively titled as, "The Fox and The Dogs". Aesop wrote and published this story.

This story consists of some dogs and a Fox. When the dogs start to tear and eat the lion's skin, a fox wandering beside laughed reproachfully and said "If that lion was alive, it would have been a very varying story.

The lion had made you feel how sharp his claws are than your teeth!" Also, earlier versions of this story are available, but each of them describes this lesson.

Every Time is Story Time

By story, we can grow our creativity of mind because every story has a moral, and if we learn more we can learn new and good things. That is why you tell these all Stories to your children and tell them their Morals because, by morals, children can learn new and unique things. You can learn morals by reading it loudly. So, why are you waiting for? Tell The Story of The Dogs and The Fox to your child and tell him the Moral of this Story.