

Three Little Pigs

Once upon a time, there were three young pigs of an old mother pig, who were enough mature to send outside in the world to make their future. So, their mother sent them to anywhere else.

As the first pig was extremely lazy and did not want to work at all, so he built his house by straws. Similarly, the second pig was lazy also, but somehow, he worked a little bit harder and made a house by sticks.

Then, both of them played together the entire day, danced and sang. On the other hand, the third pig worked daily and very hard to build his house by bricks. He made a strong and complete house consisting of a chimney and fireplace as well.

It seemed, as it will be able to bear the strongest and most powerful winds.

Entry of the Big Bad Wolf

The next day, a dreaded wolf passed from the nearby bushes where the three pigs lived, saw the straw house, and smelled the pig inside it.

He thought that the pig would be the finest food for him and his mouth started to water. Therefore, he knocked at the door and said, "Hey, little pig, let me in!"

But as the little pig saw the wolf's huge paws by the keyhole, so he replied, "No! No! Not by the hairs on my chinny chin!" Listening to the pig's words, The Wolf showed his teeth and said, "Then I will huff, puff and blow your house away!" and blown the straw House down.

The Second House

The wolf opened his jaws very wide for biting the hardest bite, but the pig escaped, ran and hid into the sticks house of the second little pig. The wolf continued to the next sticks house, knocked at the door and asked, "Little pigs, let me in!"

But the little pigs saw the wolf's pointy ears by the keyhole and replied, "No! No! Not by the hairs on my chinny chin!" So, the wolf said, "Then, I will huff, puff and blow away your house!" and blown the sticks house down.

The Third House

Again, the two little pigs escaped and hid into the third pig's house. The wolf continued, knocked and asked again, "Little pigs, let me in!" But the little pigs again replied, "No! No! Not by the hairs on my chinny chin!" So, the wolf said, "Then, I will huff, puff and blow away your house!"

Well, he huffed and puffed repeatedly, but could not blow the house away. Finally, he got defeated, as he was not capable to huff and puff anymore. The wolf thought, "How can I get my meal?" Then he saw the chimney and climbed upon the roof.

But as he climbed, the pigs inside fired the chimney and put a large pot filled by water to boil. Just as the wolf came down by the chimney, the little pigs pulled off the lid and the wolf fell into the boiling water. Then, they put the lid again, the wolf boiled and they ate him up.

Moral

This interesting story has a very meaningful moral that is:

Dedication and hard work never goes in vain and always pays off.

About

The Three Little Pigs is a very famous and classic Fable of three pigs, who built three different houses by three different materials. A big and bad wolf blow away the houses of the first two pigs of straw and sticks, but cannot blow the third pig's house of bricks.

It is a nursery rhyme, well known, appeared in English Fairy Tales by Joseph Jacobs, firstly published on 19th June 1890, and crediting James Halliwell-Phillipps as his source.

Every Time is Story Time

By story, we can grow our creativity of mind because every story has a moral, and if we learn more we can learn new and good things. That is why you tell these all Stories to your children and tell them their Morals because, by morals, children can learn new and unique things. You can learn morals by reading it loudly. So, why are you waiting for? Tell The Story of Three Little Pigs to your child and tell him the Moral of this Story.